Shared characteristics

- global mandate from their respective constituency
- impartial and independent, serving the international data community
- operating at a supra-disciplinary level, with a focus on data related issues
- pathfinding and strategic without being funding agencies

Why we work together

- each organisation has unique modus operandi and different stakeholders
- each organisation draws on separate mandates, diverse funding streams, and advances distinct but complementary strategies and goals

BUT

- shared objectives and serve overlapping communities
- the shared and distinct objectives of the four organisations will be achieved more efficiently and effectively through transparent coordination and cooperation

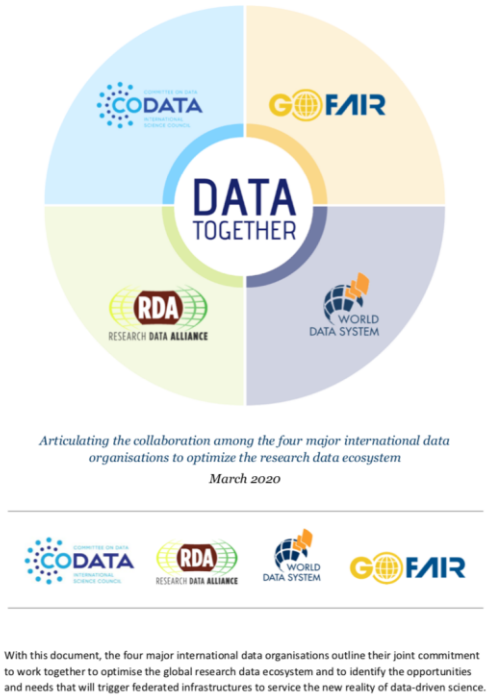
The process



- Already existing working relations in different combinations of parties
- Start leadership meetings fall 2019
- Focus on a joint statement, published in March 2020

Future perspectives

- Continuation of existing collaborations, like International Data Week (IDW)
- Regular meetings between the secretariats/offices of the four organisations
- Regular leadership meetings to inform, align and collaborate
- Definition of a shared agenda for the coming years

Data Together for EOSC

- Bring more transparency and efficiency
- Support for policy development (directly and indirectly);
- Alignment and synchronization of effort with international work;
- Support for standards development and interoperability; best practices around different commons (US, Aus, Chin, EOSC)
- FAIR implementation
